

A Farm In "La Cuadrilla" Pays For Itself

Twenty-four miles down the valley, on the macadamized road.

We are cutting up into five acre tracts a beautiful alfalfa farm with an extraordinarily good stand of alfalfa.

As fertile as any California land. These tracts are being sold at $250.00 per acre. Terms 10% cash, balance $15.00 per month. Cheaper than similar land. Each tract is fenced. This year's crop to the purchaser. Water paid for. Pumping plant assures water. Two morning trains to El Paso. Two evening trains back.

Good health is of paramount importance. Build your home here in a beautiful open country, cool breezes over the green alfalfa fields through the open doors and windows bring the ruddy color of health to the ill. Get away from the noise, dust, dirt and heat of the city.

You owe it to yourselves and to your children.

Where everything grows, flowers, all kinds of berries and vegetables, fresh eggs and milk.

Can show it any time.

Society Women Organize Club To Entertain Poor Of New York

A "Public Good Society" Formed to Bring Masses Into Closer Contact With The Classes.

GATHERING AT WALDORF AND WEBSTER HALL

Mrs. Powell Hopes to Set up New Aristocracy in Which All Men and Women Will Be Equal.

President of the Public Good society, which has just been organized by society women to entertain the poor and do away with the social aristocracy. New York, N. Y., March 2.—With the object of entertaining the poor of the city in the same way that they entertain themselves, a group of society women and men of Manhattan and Brooklyn have organized a club called the Public Good society. Its purpose, aside from entertaining the poor is to educate them and bring capital and labor into closer contact, to the lasting benefit of both.

It is hoped to get up a new aristocracy, in which all men and women will be equal. To bring the west side and the east side together. To give every poor person an equal chance.

To found a sanitarium for the poor. Establish tent cities for poor mothers. Publish a monthly journal in the interest of the poor. Organize similar societies in other cities. The society was organized a few days ago and will be incorporated at Albany within the week. The officers have already been elected. They are: Mrs. Alma Webster Powell, president; Mrs. Calvin Edwards Hull, vice president; Edwin Palmer Rives, treasurer; Dr. F. A. Stenck, medical director, and the Rev. Henry Frank, director of economics.

MRS. ALMA WEBSTER POWELL.

Outcome of the Mozart Club Dispute. The formation of the new society is the outcome of a dispute that occurred at a recent meeting of the Mozart club. One of the members spoke slightly of Mrs. Powell's Brooklyn friends, referring to them "shirt waist wearers," and Mrs. Powell resented it by promptly resigning. She decided to form the Public Good society at once and to eliminate all class distinction.

"I don't believe in this social society anyway," said Mrs. Powell, who is a singer of note, to a correspondent for The Herald today at her magnificently furnished home, No. 215 President street. "I think one man or woman is as good as another, if they are honest."

This is the keystone of the new society. All the members, including Mrs. Hull, the vice president, who comes from a very old and wealthy family, believe in social equality.

"I wouldn't care if a man or woman didn't have a cent, so long as they were honest," said Mrs. Hull, who is a charter member of the Smile club.

Mrs. Powell, who is taking a deep interest in the eutectic movement, gave up a good deal of her valuable time to explain the objects of the new organization. She took pains to state that it had nothing to do with suffrage directly, although she hoped that it would eventually help to bring about the franchise for women through its example and its workings.

"Our plan," said Mrs. Powell, "is to have two main places—one at the Waldorf-Astoria and one at Webster Hall, in East 11th street. At the former the so-called better element will meet, and at the latter the poor of the east side will come together."

"Social gatherings will be held in each place once a month in the evening, the idea being to bring together the men and women of the family. We will have lectures, vocal and instrumental music, including opera selections, and dancing."

To Have Government Lectures. "We hope to get the government interested so that it will send a lecturer who can give a talk on economics. There will be another lecturer, who will take the side of the common people, and in a measure oppose the government's ideas with the object of bringing the social economic conditions existing throughout the country into notice, so that the wealthy and the poor will understand each other better and thus bring about more equitable conditions."

"After the lectures and music we will have dancing for the young people, and the older ones, too. My daughter will be there with her escort, and she will be obliged to learn the things that are necessary to know."

"We will let the east side teach the west side. The latter do not know life. They are too phlegmatic, too staid, too stiff. They want to get in touch with things as they exist among the rank and file of the people."

"They are anxious to do it, too. Our plan has received the endorsement of a great many well known people and I am being inundated with applications for membership. The dues will be $5 a year and we intend to have about 1000 members. A lot of very wealthy people have joined already, but I am almost sorry for this, for I find they are the ones that are usually close fisted. But we are not going to depend on donations. The dues will support the organization."

"We hope to accomplish a great deal for the dwellers of the east side and eventually to convince the legislators without taking a horse whip to them that they ought to pass just laws that will help to alleviate the misery and suffering that now exists among the poor."

"When our meetings are held in Webster hall, we will go through the same program as at the Waldorf. The west side and the east side will mingle together and social distinctions will not be drawn at all. We hope to set up a new aristocracy in which all will be equal by educating the poor."

Mrs. Powell, when asked if it was in evening attire and let them mingle with her guests at a reception recently, smiled and said:

"There may be some truth in the story. Why not?"

It was learned that Mary Corrigan, a waitress in Mrs. Powell's home, dressed in a $500 gown, mingled with her mistress' guests for a whole evening at a ball recently, but she felt ill at ease and said afterwards that she didn't care for society life, as it was too hard work.

SPARKS START PRAIRIE FIRE

Section Crew and Cowboys Prevent Serious Damage at Plateau.

Plateau, Tex., March 19.—Only the prompt and heroic work of the section crew and cowboys prevented a serious prairie fire here. Sparks from a passing freight train set the high dry grass on fire half a mile east of town, and the flames were driven by a strong wind in a southeasterly direction at a furious rate. For a time it looked as though Plateau was to have a repetition of last year's serious fire. However, it was extinguished before more than 50 acres had been swept over by the flames.

Mrs. Clyde Myers gathered 500 resurrection plants from nearby hills, which she sold to an enterprising Cibeurne merchant, who gives them as premiums to customers. The money she received for the same was generously donated toward building a sidewalk in front of the Episcopal church in Cibeurne.

CLINT NOW WANTS ROAD TO FABENS

Another Store Building and Hotel Are Being Built There.

Clint, Tex., March 19.—The people of this vicinity are very much disappointed to learn that the county road will not be extended to Fabens at the present time, as this road means as much to them as the county road meant to their neighbors nearer El Paso.

The spur connecting with the G. H. & S. A. railroad has been laid as far as the grade is made, and as far as the present contract calls for. Only an extension of this track will be required to place the material on the Fabens road.

Building activity is very lively at this time. Several new residences are being planned. Another modern store, as well as a hotel are now under way.

"DRY" CAMPAIGN IS STARTED AT GLOBE

Miners Union and Ministers Association Unite For Work.

Globe, Ariz., March 19.—The Globe Miners' union and the Globe Ministerial association have joined forces with the intention of giving Globe a touch of "dryness"—not actual prohibition, but two days of a "dry" campaign, which promises to be the forerunner of a local option campaign in Globe.

Prof. William Maxwell Burke, Ph. D., superintendent of the Antislavery league for Arizona, will be the star attraction, and he will speak several times Sunday and Monday, and the campaign will wind up on Monday night with a big mass meeting at Dreamland, under the auspices of the Miners' union.

In addition to Dr. Burke's address, an address will be made by Judge F. S. Nave and other local speakers.

Prof. Burke was formerly connected with the Antislavery league work in New Jersey, and was superintending of the Oakland district of the Antislavery league in California.

Bisbee, Ariz., March 19.—Highly incensed because principal Boardman, of local school, tipped a boy as a member of the publisher's local staff, created a riot, surrounding Prof. Boardman in the basement of the building, after school hours, and threatening to beat him. The arrival of other professors prevented a fight.

AMUSEMENTS.

"UNCLE JOSH PERKINS."

"Uncle Josh Perkins" will undoubtedly attract a large audience at the El Paso theater when it is produced there Sunday, March 20, as the piece has proved one of the most popular of all rural comedies that have been produced in recent years. While "Uncle Josh Perkins" has a most interesting plot, the lines are well written, the characters well drawn, and the action natural and not forced. To add to the production, Frank Hall has equipped it with a complete scenic environment, while the acting company is said to include a number of well known local favorites.
